Fluffy is free today (29th May 2019), via the gamegiveawayoftheday

[\[https://game.giveawayoftheday.com/fluffy-3/\]](https://game.giveawayoftheday.com/fluffy-3/)HERE (it's the non Steam version, so no cards or achievements are included)

The following is based off the free version I received via the gamegiveawayoftheday and not my Steam version, which I'd totally forgotten about. I don't remember buying it, so I'm presuming it was included in one of those cheap and nasty indie bundles that are full of £0.99 games; usually made with Unity, gamemaker or RPGmaker.

Fluffy is a timed platformer where the aim of the game is to move your pet to its home before the rain starts. There is an indicator in the bottom left of the screen that indicates when it is about to start raining. If it empties completely you have to restart the level again

You move your character using the A & D keys, jump using the space key and move your pet to your side by right clicking the mouse. You must move your pet while it is still visible on screen.

Fluffy is a simple, nicely rendered and challenging game, especially if you are left handed as the key bindings are not editable and are more suited to a right handed person. I found it almost impossible to carry out the required tasks in the time available due to the inability to edit the key bindings.

It took me several attempts to complete the first level due in part to the less than intuitive controls. You must ensure there is enough space left on a platform for your pet to be able to fit on the platforms you jump to, otherwise you'll lose your pet and be unable to complete the level. According to others who have played this game, the pet can also get in the way and cause you to miss platforms.

As you progress from level to level, they become more challenging with various obstacles to avoid. You'll meet other characters such as the snowman, who will give you a key in exchange for presents that you pick up on your journey.
